Course Description:

Women have different pathways to the development of a substance use disorder, as well as different risk factors, treatment needs, and barriers to treatment, compared to those of men (SAMHSA, 2011). This course will provide: an overview of the effects of age and life transitions on alcohol and drug use in women; it will introduce a host of stressors and life circumstances that could be accompanied by significant changes in substance use and could be implicated in a woman's development of a substance use disorder. This course will explore barriers to treatment, treatment engagement strategies, and provide discussion about the applicability to current work with patients.

Course Facilitator(s):

This course will be presented by: Kayleen DePue, MA, LPC, CCS, CADC, EMT, has been working as a Trainer within the Workforce Development department since 2011. Kayleen's career has included providing residential & outpatient case management, counseling, and group facilitation, clinical supervision, and clinical systems management.

Course Objectives:

Participants will be able to:

- A. Define sex and gender difference that affect women's experience with substance use and substance use disorders (SUD).
- B. Identify common reasons that women/girls initiate substance use, potential risk factors related to substance use and protective factors against substance use.
- C. Describe 3 potential barriers to women seeking SUD treatment.
- D. Identify 2 ways to increase treatment engagement for women.
